extensive knowledge of the U.N. and a passionate concern for the vast number of people living in poverty throughout the world. My favorite professor's book

By Julie Clare This was written by my mentor in International Relations at Eckerd College, Professor Bill Felice. For everyone at Eckerd who has been lucky enough to have one of Felice's classes, you already know that he and this book are both great. Anyone with an interest in international relations, human rights, etc. should read this book. I also recommend his book Taking Suffering Seriously. They are hard to find at regular bookstores, but I'm excited to see that sells them both.¹ of 1 people found the following review helpful. A book of hope.

By Charles R. Lester This book shows that the problems in the world can be resolved. It shows one way this could happen.
